Love Kett's Books?

So do we. The bookshop itself is actually a labour of love – a group of people from within the Wymondham community formed it to promote their shared love of reading and learning.

Here are some of the ways you can get involved:

Shop with us. When you buy books from us, the funds stay in the Wymondham area, we all benefit, and shop is more sustainable.

Join the Friends scheme. For a £20 minimum donation you can show your support in a meaningful way, and enjoy benefits outlined overleaf.

Volunteer. From working in the shop, to managing health and safety, we have a large team of volunteers bringing all the skills that help any group of people work safely and happily together.

Tell your friends. Spread the word about us, and persuade your friends to shop with us. Even buying only half your books from Kett's Books would make us an enormous success.

Beyond helping the shop directly, you can help spread our good work in your own ways. Here are some ideas:

Talk to each other. Build relationships, share ideas, and grow our collective ability to respond better to the world around us.

Read aloud. Literacy begins with hearing language. The patterns and rhymes in stories teach children to anticipate the words to come.

Share picture books. Understanding what's going on in the pictures is as important as reading the text. And talking about books while you read them helps you grow closer, too.

Want to know more? Ask in the shop or check our website. There's always something to get involved in. We look forward to meeting you.
